5 MILES RACE OF TWO REGIMENTS.

Burnley 3 Decby County 2

Defeat of "The Saucy Worcesters."

Two regiments of British infantry paraded in "running " shorts " at Aldershot recently, says the "Daily Mail." The men of the 52nd Light Infantry (Oxford and Backs Regiment) and the men of the Weresters; who, as their bluzoned "colours tell, fought shoulder to shoulder in the grim days of the Peninsular Wars, now stood side by side in rivalry at Barossa-the, pagade ground named Baressa, not the battlefield. The colonel of the Worcesters dropped his cap, and with a rush the two, regiments, dashed forward on a five miles' contest of speed.

The race was a sequel to a cross-gointry ran in which the Worcesters, the 52nd (the Highland Light Infantry), and the Connaught Rangers took part earlier in the month. The Worsesters won on that occasion, and though it was only by the narrow margin of five seconds, they enried themselves with such an air that the young women of Aldershot dubbed them ." The Saucy Worcesters." THE CHALLINGE.

Afterwords Major Ruck Keene, D.S.O., the officer commanding the 52nd Light Infantry, challenged Lieutenant-Colonel Westingcott, commanding the Worcesters, to a regimental Maruthon. The 52nd lined up at the starting post 303 strong and wore green, and the Worcesters numbered 297 and were Ali Whites. 4.

The route lay by the Club House, across the marshy ground by Ball Hill, and on towards Laffan's Plain. Near Ively Farm the course branched to the left in the "direction of Norris Bridge, and then continued along the line of the canal to Wharf Bridge, and so to the parade ground again.

PATE OF A PAT WORCERTER. It was heavy going towards Ball Hill, Several big ditches had to be cleared, and a fat Worcester, catching his foot on a stone took an involuntary header into four feet of water. Thirty-one minutes from the start a green streak flashed borne to Albuera. This was Corporal E. J. Smith, of A Company of the 52nd, passed the post four minutes shead of any rival. Nine other men of the 52nd trooped in before the first Worcester was sighted. He, however, was the herald of a big batch of "Old Bolds."

The race was to be awarded to the regiment with the first fifty men home, and it was a close shave, for the 52nd's half-hundred were not sale within the fold before the Worcesters had forty-six an extraordinary tale of mystery and crime, says the Paris correspondence of the "Daily Telegraph." The body of a wealthy manufacturer, who disappeared six, weeks ago, has been discovered buried in a wood near his works in the exact spet indicated by a fortune-teiler of Narley, contraited by a friend of the dead man's wife. Towards the end of last your M. Cadiou, who lived at Paris but frequently visited the celiulose factory of which he was a director, disappeared. He had been seen for the last time on Dee, 80 by the landfuly of the rooms which he occupied on his visits to Landerness. In the afternoon he had gone out, saying tout he might return to Paris In any case, he said, his landlady must ne would drink it before taking the night On the following day, when the woman game up to put his room in order, she found that the bed had not been sleps in. Assuming that he had returned to Paris, she was not at all measy. On Dec. 31 Madame Cadiou was at the Gare Montparmass to meet her husband. As he did not arrive, and she knew that be had many enemies, Madamo Cadiou in formed the Surete, which opened on inquiry. Detectives were sent down to Landerneau, but discovered nothing. The authorities began to suspect that M. Cadieu had either left the country or committed suicide. His wife, however, and his brother held firmly to the theory of a crime. Only a few days ago Madame Cadiou offered a reward of £80 to whoever should direover her husband's body. Then suddealy the mysterious affair took a strange and dramatic turn. M. Jean Cadiou, brother of the missing manufacturer, who, on his own initiative, has been conducting inquiries at Landerneau, received through Madamo Cadiou a letter ltad consulted a fortune-teller in connection with the mystory.

HEMARKABLE STATEMENT.

The clairroyante had given the following detailed account of M. Cadiou's fato: Leen Cadion was murdered by a tall, red-haired, bearded man, of from 80 to 35 years of age, who was assisted in his trime by a smaller man, who kept watch. Ha was tripped up, probably by a cord, about four or five o'clock in the afternoon. When on the ground he received a brutal blow on the right side of the head, and then another in the back. The second was unnecessary, for the first had killed him. Do not look for few inches of earth near a mill. It will ha discovered, and the murderer brought to justice.

On receiving this letter, M. Jean Cadiou was at first naturally sceptical But he recollected that close to the factory there was a mill and near the mil plantation, which answered to the fortune-teller's description. This plantution he searched carefully, but for an hour in vain. At last, when he was about to abandon the search he found a spot where the earth seemed to have been freshly disturbed. He dug with his pick, and soon struck a piece of cloth In a frenzy of excitement he knelt down and began turning up the earth with his bore hands. As a few inches below the surface he discovered the mutilated body of his brother. He ran to the factory to summon help ind gave orders that the police should be informed. The body was carried to the factory, and there it was discovered that the body of the murdored manufacturer bors two terrible wounds. The skull had been crushed with some heavy instrument, and the neck almost severed, probably by priming-hook. The dead man's clother were torn, as if in a fierce struggle for life. His hands were gloved, a fact which proves that the attack had been audden and unexpected. On the formal accusation of M. Jean Cadiou, brother of the victim and discoverer of the body, M. Pierre, the engineer of the factory, has been arrested on the charge of murder. The engineer had, it is said, received notice of dismissul from M. Cadiou a few days before the latter's disappearance. M. Pierre protests his innocence, in spite of the fact that in an out-house in which he kept his took has been found a pick-axe with several hairs adhering to it. The engineer explains that he had used the pick to kill a rabbit.

GIRL IN MAN'S CLOTHES.

An extraordinary story of a Bolton girl's musquerade was told at Lancaster County Police Court recently, when Martha Alice Hodgson, 28, card-room hand, was committed to Loncaster Quarter Sessions, charged with stealing an overcook and trousers, with which she effected a disguise, belonging to Thomas Pass, of Morecambe, with whose wife she got lodgings. She appeared as a young man, saying she was a Midlaud Railway carter, transferred from Bolton to Morecambe. She said her father kept " slatting" her past in her teeth, and she adopted the disguise. On leaving home she walked the forty-five miles to More combe, disclosing her sex when arrested

NIJ NSKY IN LONDON.

TO APPEAR AT THE PALACE.

Famous Russian Dancer.

Mr. Alfred Buth has secured the dis-Engelished Russian dancer, Nijinsky, for a four weeks season at the Palace, begirning on Monday, March 2.

The engagement must cortainly be ratiked among the biggest schiovements which the London music-hall thage has so far, to its credit. Nijinsky has been hailed as the greatest dancer of the age. The position thus claimed for him is hardly likely to be contested by anyone having the least pretentions to speak inthoritatively on the subject of the art of the "dancer. The measure of man's taleut is not, of course, to b gauged by the amount of his income. but, after all, there is something to be said for such a test, and it may confidently be asserted that Nijinaky commands at least, be no harm in quoting one parafor his services a higher scale of remune. graph. And, without betraying con- that he know everything from his birth. fidences, it may be hinted that it took It requires a serious effect to make us some time to satisfy him that the lead- realise that this expert mime, this great ing London variety theatres stood on a level with, certainly not lower than, that he studies every sepect of his part with occupied by the regular playhouses.

Three weeks have clapsed since negociutionis .were first started. At Mr Butt's request Mr. Rudolf Mayer procreded to Buda-Perth, and subsequently to Puris, in order to bring these to an issue. In point of fact they were broken off several times. But in the end Mr. Mayer accomplished his object.

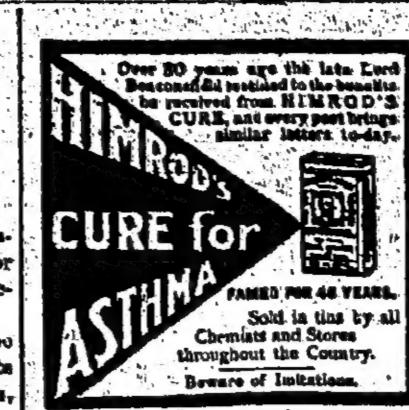

It is custominy nowadays to speak of record-breaking salaries. As, a simple statement of fact it may be mentioned however, that the cost of this one engagement to the Palace will run into more than four figures per week. Notwithstanding this, Mr. Butt has no intention whatever of raising prices. It may be remembered that when Nijinsky appeared at Convent Garden the charge for stalls, graph." on the contrary, was increased from 21s to 30s. -

At the Palace Nijinsky will be surrounded by a picked ballet from St. Petersburg and Moscow. Scenery and costumes, further, will be the work of the same artists and designeers who helped to make the Convent Garden productions famous. During his season he will present " The Spectre of the Rose, with Weber's music, "The Carnival of Schamann, "Les Sylphides," by Chopin, and a new version of his own of a rhapsody by Liszt, which has not yet been performed in London.

NUINBEY'S CARERS. Is may not be amiss to say a few wordsabout the artist himself. Nijinsky was born in Warsaw twenty-four years agoo His father and mother were both closely connected with the branch of the Russian bailet established there, the former being parly promoted to the rank of ballet master. At an early age Nijinsky began to reveal the characteristics of a unique talent, and when nine years old was transferred from Warsaw and enlisted as scholar in the Imperial ballet, St. Peters burg. By the time he was 18 he had sufficiently distinguished himself to secure a place in the front rank of contemporary dancers. A year later he was the acknowledged idol of the St. Petersburg the same way.

His first appearance with the Russian ballet at the Chatelet Theatre in Paris in "Pavillon d'Armide" brought him instant and an wider recognition. His amazing leaps on the stage, his highly

A FRANK "APPRILATION."

There exists an "approciation" of Nijinsky, written by Francis de Miomanire. It is conceived in a spirit of unalloyed, yet obviously honest, admiration. Allowing for the frank enthusiasm of a whole-hearted partisan, it may be read, however, with interest. There can, it runs, "which Nijinsky's paradoxical actor, leaves nothing to esprice, that meticulous care. Almost does he cause us to forget this fact, so natural are his movements and his attitudes. This. perhaps, is the finest homage one can pay an artist-to imagine, not that he is acting, but that he actually lives the part. Shall we ever know how much Nijinsky translates of his own tensitive being into the role, tragic or tender, which at the 'moment he assumes? "A true poet like him can never lie or withhord anything from the public. He yields nimscil entirely to the compelling power of his imagination. He is not an actor for whom a change of costume is sufficient to denote an alteration of character, but man who seeks to penetrate to the very souls of others."-" Daily Tele-

PAGLIACCI "-NEW PROLOGUE.

A correspondent of the "Liverpool Post " is reminded of the story of a wellknown Italian buritons who sang first in Amorica with a grand opera company touring in the West. " Pagliscoi." was to be produced in a certain large Western city for the first time, and the box office receipts hid been exceptionally big. But Signor had not been paid.

Fluding all remonstrance futile, he decided to hold up the performance, and going before the curtain, he excitedly told his troubles to the sudience in broken off the stage, but he resisted and soninucd his tale of woe. Being unfamiliar with the opera, the Western audience took this amusing KINGSCLERE HOTEL, episode for the legitimate prologue, and rocked with laughter at what it thought to be the counterfeit woo of a singer in the little travelling troups about which "Pagliacci" tells. The whole week in that town the prologue had to be given

ALLEGED HEARTLESS SWINDLER

At Guildhall on Feb. 5, before Alderman Sir John Baddeley, John Archiball kissed her hand and left the house. Campbell Mason, 45, a tail, clean-shaven, well-dressed American, who described himself as of independent means, and residing at a flat in St. James's-street, Piccadiily, was charged on a warrant with obtaining by false protences from Miss Ethel S. Lucena, of 2, First-avenue, Hove, near Brighton, a cheque for £50 with intent to defraud. He was further charged with fraudulently converting his own use the sum in question, which

. Mr. Clarence Tomlinson, who appear. for the prosecution, said the accused t only arrested on the evening before and he was therefore bound to ask for a remard. Detective-inspector Nicholla stated that at seven o'clock the previous evening accompanied '. by ' Detective-constale linight, he stopped the prisoner as he was leaving Nos. 72 and 73. St. James' street, and said, "You are Mr. J. A. t. Mason, I believe?" He replied, "Yes. Witness then told him that he was police officer, and held a warrant for h arrest for obtaining, on Jan. 12, by fair pretences from Miss Lucena the sum a £500, and also for fraudulent conversion He was taken to Vine-street Police-static. in the first instance, where the warra: was, read to him. BRIDGE PARTY.

Mr. H. G. Savill, the chief clerk, real Miss Lucena's sworn information, upothe strength of which the warrant we granted. The lady said that the accused was introduced to her about Dec. 16, al bridge party at 46, Brunswick-place, Hove. He made himself very pleasant to her, and mentioned the name of certain captain known to her whom I said was also a friend of his. After som further conversation she asked him join a small bridge party at the Susser County Club after dinner on the follow ing Seturday, and he agreed. On th Saturday morning he rang her up an suggested that before the party she should dine with him at the Metropole, and she screpted the invita_on.

During the progress of dinner Major talked of money matters, and led her in belief that he was in a position make good investments for his friends On Dec. 28 they again dired together Brighton, when the acoused told-her some of his past life. He also said he ha taken a great fancy to her, spoke Subsequently, - while lunching wi Alason at the Pier Hotel, he told her of certain incident in his life. He said he had been in trouble with a woman Paris. He then definitely asked he (Miss Lucena) to marry him, and mean time to live in a flat in town at his e pense. The latter proposition she declin ol to entertain.

A PARIS INTRIGUE. Lord Marcus Beresford-Mason told

Was her-way a great friend of his so was Mr. each. Pierpont Morgan, with whom he was at Mr. Harper: Can my client go to Eton. There were several other inter Brixton in a cab? NOTE AND PLOWERS.

The next morning she received a note and flowers, and in accordance with the former Muson again put in an appearance in the evening and once more pressed her to let him invest some of her money in "Peirpont Morgan's companies." He again mentioned 12,000 as a desirable figure. Finally she agreed to let him have £500 for the purpose. He then 'said, " You are looking very ill, and] should like to marry, you to-morrow; but it will be better for me to see my sunt had been entrusted to him for the purfirst." She arranged with her stockbrokers for an advance of £500, and on Jan. 12 a cheque for that amount, was actually handed over to the accused! Then Mason said he must go at once to America to inform his aunt-from whom he had "great expectations"-of the coming marriage. He declared that e would travel by the Majestic, and would be able to return in a fortnight. Then, he added, they would be magried immediately. Upon her request hongave for a promissory note as evidence that no had had her money.

The £500 cheque having been obtained rom the brokers, they both drove to the merican Express Company, The accusd went in there, and on returning reresented that he had booked a passage t the Majestic. They went back to righton, where the farewall took place, Inson promising to cable as soon as he reached his destination. She saw him

The Majestic arriving at New York and getting no news, Miss Lucens became onessy. She wired to the address the Fowls, Canten - Kai accused had given her before leaving and found it was fictitious. Realizing that she had been defrauded, she wen the American Embassy. Inquiries were made, and it was found that Mason ashed the cheque at the American Express Company but did not book a pass-She also learnt for the first time that Mr. Pierpont Morgan had been long

The China market it is hoped will help meteers along by buying freely when the New Year holidays'are o er but at the moment little is doing and this market promises more than it performs. the mail reports to hand this week give hopes-for a revival and show that it is probably the one market that is not overstocked and further, deliveries to the consumer are more than keeping pace with the arrivals. The conditions of trade the e-generally show a definite improvement. At the meeting of the Barnley Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Association held last week, he question of an organised short time was discussed and it was decided to circularise the members to secertain whother they were favourable to the proposal. It was suggested that the mile should stop an equivalent o' one week in a mouth but it is rather doubtful as t whether such a cour e would first go era acceptance . It is not all makers who are in such at bad position as to with to curtail their output to su h an extent and a question of this kind cannot be decided by a bare majority.

Mr. H. Samuel, the Postmaster. General, speaking on old-age pensions at Wakefield said he heard recently that to a village post office in Whiltshire there came overy week an old man and his son and his daughter all of them to draw old-uge pensions. The father's age was ninety-five his "boy's " age soventythree, and his "girl's " ago seventy-one. (Laughter and cheers.)

each other. Some of these appear to us to differ little from each other, and probably the one thing that differentiated them was that one festival called for one kind of ritual and another for another. But the one discovery that seems to give the profoundest satisfaction to these guessers after truth, or devotees of tradition, is that there appears to be be no trace of the kautou found in those days. This species of etiquette, so characteristic of the fallen Manchus, is inted by most of the Chinese, and, therefore, there seems to be great rejoicings that there exists no trace that men in those days humbled themselves before the gods or their mundane superiors in this way. The inference from this is of course that as the dragon flag has gone—the emblem of Manchu rule-so kautou may also go, and thereby, nothing that is essentially Chinese will be sacrificed or lost. Apparently, days it must be employed to-day, though at bottom the writers do not like the etiquette and are evidently hoping that it may be dispensed with. The etiquette and ritual of the Republic must go back and have its roots in nuclent practise, or it will not be acceptable to gods or men. The knoton, however, may go and in this all will rejoice, for it would have been a sore imposition if it were nim - Auctions of Crown Lands at fetained, being as it was, so characteristic of the rulers from whom the country has just freed itself. Measrs. Methuen and Co's New Publications.

Mesers. Methuen and Co. have just published the dollowing:-"A new novel by Mr. E. Phillips Oppen. heim, entitled "The Way of These Women." In this story, Mr. Oppenheim has boldly deserted the somewhat complicated mechanism which goes to the making of modern romance. He has contented himself with weaving a tensely written story around one event, and concentrating the whole love interest of the book upon two people.

A novel by Mr. W. Douglas Newton entitled " War." This curious and start. ling book shows in general the Juggermant progress of a foreign army through effect of that progress on a mixed un acquainted with war save as an entertaining item bi news. War is robbed of its glamour and stands stark, bitter, ugly. Mrs. B. M. Croker's delightful story 'Katherine The Arrogant " has been udded to the series of two-shilling novels.

The January number of the Studio is one of singular interest. Plates of exceptional beauty, illustrate an ably written appreciation of the work of W. Russell Flint, the romanticist painter, among them being "The Huntress and the Knight" (the property of Sir Aston Webb, R.A.), "Autumn's Fading Glory -a typical example of his landscape work -and a sketch of the Morina Grande | Sorrento. The publication of two article descriptive of sketching grounds in photography is the medium employed illustration marks a somewhat new de parture. Mr. Frank Hydo writes of Capri as a place which he knows and loves well, and ones only regret is than he did not picture it from his slietch book, admirable as are his photographs. The same applies to Mr. W. Holland Nupton's interesting description of Tunis with its spacious sendy wastle set verdant cases. The other leatures of number include articles dealing with Now English Art Club; and examples of modern English jewellery.

SHIPPISG OUTLOOK.

Apart from the trouble that threatens of quarrel between the two leading German lines and a rate wat on the North Atlantic and Far Eastern routes, the cargo boat outlook at the moment is very depressed. During the past few months ocean freighti have drapped to such an extent that the laying up of tonuage on a large acate is con templated. The shipbuilding output has been greatly in excess of requirements, with the result that competition has reduced ates and several owners have been ordering steamers home in ballust rather than accept the figures offering at River. Plate, Black Sea and Mediterranean ports. The suggestion put forward is that for the next two m nthe a certain percentage of the vessuls available should be withdrawn from service, and that there kept in em ployment should contribute towards the coat, and this plan, I am told, is receiving | led the central Government not only to serious attention in influential shipping THE SERVANT IN CLOVER.

CHINESE CURRENCY SITUATION

Comul General George F. Anderson. Hongkong, proutlest the trade situation as affected by the status of Chinese paper currency in various parts of China, and particularly in the trade districts tributary to Hongkong, is likely to be improved materially in the immediate future. In Courton the currency situation has been brought to a head by the amouncement that the central Government intended not to accept the proviacial hotes now current as money in payment of salt taxos. This amionnoement resulted in representations on the part of commercial circles in South China tohe Government at Peking, which has necept the provincial notes in payment of all taxes, but has also influenced it to make provision for the substitution of notes of the central Government, for that end are now in progress. -

Arrangements are also being made for the redemption of a portion of the outstanding provincial notes with silver 20cent pieces to the value of $5,400,000 local currency coined by the provincial mint some time ago. The provincial Government also is preparing to raiso, a loan of about $10,000,000 local currency, pledging certain public property such as the Government interest in the cement works, the alectric light comments. waterworks company, and similar proporty somewhat exceeding in value the amount to be raised. The proceeds of any such loan are to be devoted to the adjustment of the currency and to re-

That some action as to the currency situation in China is necessary is becoming more and more-evidents All over nowspapers, in the north and in the Yangtszo Valley as well, export commodities are piling up in warehouses, while imports are slack and business in some lines is almost at a standstill. The currency is the chief element in this dangerous situation. There is little doubt but that a considerable supply of foreign goods must be imported and put into consumption yet this year in spite of the situation, and it is manifest as well that the goods manufactured for export must be exported sooner or later at whatever price they will bring. Unless the trade can be carried on profitably, however, the ultimate effects of the forced exchange will money generally are still very tight, but there is a slight improvement in South China in this respect in the closing months of the year which may permit of some important movement.-" London

The Admiralty has issued orders for the cruiser Yazmouth, Captain H. HONGKONG TIDES.

The tide table given below has been compiled at the Nautical Almana Uffice in London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an ame tomatic tide recording machine in the Wa-ter Police Basin at Trim bha Trul during the years 1887-8-9.

The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the sounding in the Admiralty. Charts which has been found to be 4 feet S inches below mean sea level;

To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add Freet 4 inches, and on the gauge at Lamont Dock, Aberdsen, add 10 feet 6 inches to the height given in the table.
